TO DRILL WELL 2000 FEET NEAR CARLSBAD

Owners of Big Cattle Ranch Award Contract to Test Out Rocky Arroya Section.

Carlsbad, N. M., July T.—A contract has been signed with T. A. Stanciff, of Roswell, a well driller who has had considerable experience with deep holes, to put down a 2000 foot test well in the Bocky Arroya region. The land is controlled by the Jones brothers, big cattlemen, and was lately leased by Dan McFarland, of California, and the Dayton oil field.

The well is to cost $8 per foot from top to bottom. It will thoroughly test out that section of the country, which has always shown many Indications of sil. Shale can be found that when pulverized will be greasy and smell strongly of petroleum, and there are several old wells which had to be abandened for stock purposes on account of the film of oil which covered the water and made it unfit for stock purposes. Many thousand screes of land all over the section east, west and northwest of Carlsbad have already been filed on by eager oil prospectors.

Representative Love, of the Plains country, thinks there is going to be a read crop around Lovington this year. There have been abundant rains, and already the prospectors for maire, kaffir corn and cane are flattering. The stuff is up to where it will make good fodder already, and is grawing day by day. There is a sufficient moisture still in the ground to start the heads, and the farmers, although looking for rain, as the last week has been rather hot and dry, expect to have full barns the coming fall.

There is a good prospect for a number of pumping plants to go in on the country around the plains towns. The plentiful supply of water which lies from 26 to 46 feet under the surface, the constant winds which blow at all seasons of the year, and which would allow a windmill pumping plant to be put in cheaply, and the recent big improvements in pumping engines, all make the prospects for the Lovington. Knowles and Monument country seem bright to the boosters. Added to that is the fact that much of the land has aiready been proved up on, and that a better class of settlers are conling in every day.

The stockmen report than an 80 percent calferop is not too high. An exact estimate cannot be made until after the round ups in the fall.

If the hostess hasn't an automobile, it is quite the proper thing from the guest point of view to recall some one from Spodunk or Kalamazoo who now lives in New York who has, and to say every hour: "If I visited them." THEY would give me a good time."

I would suggest that the candidate for unpopularity remain all summer; that she lie abed in the morning, thereby causing an interruption in the household routine. That she remember her manners and tell her hostess twice a day not to go to any trouble for her, and then by hints or open preferences for certain dishes see that she does.

The girl will be taken to all the show places, and she should have with her a list of all she has ever heard of and many that do not exist, and which she must produce every morning at breakfast with the declaration that she must see this, or that, or the other, or her visit will be spoiled. When taken on these outlings it is always customary for the guest to hang back and give her hostess unhampered opportunity for paying the carfare. This is so important that many guests who are alert of foot in rushing a bargain sale have been known to suddenly become almost paralytic when reaching the foot of the "L" or the top of the subway steps.
